RULES TO GOVERN DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY.

Every Candidate In Simpson County Pledged To The No Money or Whiskey Plan.

The Democratic county committee met Wednesday, November 18, 1908, at Franklin, Ky., and adopted the following resolutions:

"Resolved, First, that every candidate in addition to paying his assessment fee, shall on, or before November 20, subscribe to and file with the secretary of the Democratic committee of this county the following oath before he shall be entitled to have his name printed on the ballot:

"I desire to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the office of _____ in Simpson County, Ky., in the primary to be held December 5, 1908, and I state under oath that I have not and will not, either personally or through my friends, directly or indirectly, give, loan or promise to any voter or other person, any money, property, spirituous, vinous or malt liquors or any other thing of value for the purpose of promoting my election or influencing any voter. Nor will I permit same to be done by any or reimburse any one for work done, or money expended in my behalf. Nor will I pay any person for any work done in my behalf in said election, nor will I hire or furnish any conveyance of any kind to carry voters to the polls, or pay any person for his loss of time in attending said election. Subscribed and sworn to before me this, the day of _____, 1908.

According to a statistician one American woman in five has abandoned domestic life and become a bread winner.

Baked Beans.

Boston baked beans are known around the globe. In the city of Boston alone about 32,000,000 quarts of baked beans are devoured annually. There are factories of bakeries which handle nothing but baked beans. One of the largest of these bakes 14,000 quarts a week.

In 1904 Boston spent about $8,247,842 for beans before they were baked. There were 68,000 barrels received in the city, an average of about 37 quarts to an individual.

THE KNOWLEDGE

A FARMER NEEDS.

I used to think that the lawyer was the only one who had use for universal knowledge, as he has all kinds of questions that arise in all kinds of cases. And, indeed, I have known lawyers to be more expert than the expert witnesses themselves in certain cases of malpractice, or diseases affecting the mind or body. But this knowledge is called for only in occasional cases.

Now let us see what knowledge a farmer needs:

First.—He should not only have the trained mind of a lawyer, so that he may reason correctly and come to correct conclusions, but he should know the laws of his native land, to guide him, as the first principle of our law is that "law does not excuse ignorance of law." In other words, if you break any of our numerous laws, you cannot plead ignorance, but must suffer the penalty just the same as if you knew the law and broke it intentionally.

The farmer should not only be familiar with the Constitution of the United States and the State of Kentucky, or whatever State he lives in, that guarantees him "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," but he should know the necessary land law and the law of contracts, which he has use for most every day.

Second.—And even the knowledge of other professions would not come amiss, for the farmer could frequently use the knowledge of medicine and surgery on his live stock, and even his family in knowing the first aids of the injured, because he lives so far from the nearest doctor.

Third.—While some of our best farmers have been doctors, some of most progressive farmers have been preachers. Everything in nature suggests a creator, and the laws of nature are in evidence of divine law, and "we look up through nature to nature's God."

Fourth.—Leaving the professions, the knowledge of a merchant is needed by the farmer, for no matter how successful he may be in raising grain and live stock on his farm, he must be a good merchant to sell them well. He must not only know the ever changing markets, but he must be such a good judge of live stock that he can divide the best from the good, and inferior, and put the proper price upon each. He must know how to grade his grain. Moreover, he must, like the merchant, know how to buy as well as sell. For feeders "well bought are half fattened."

Fifth.—Then there are two kinds of branches of farming in the general sense grain farming and live stock farming. A farmer can devote a lifetime to improving or perfecting certain grain, like the Funk brothers, of Illinois, in corn raising, who use the knowledge of chemistry in breeding certain qualities into their corn, in that they claim now to have bred a corn that is actually a balanced ration, having the requisite amount of protein and carbohydrates.

And all of you have read about that wizard of horticulture, Luther Burbank, of California, now in the employ of the United States Government, who has bred seedless fruit, thornless cacti, etc. So that a man can devote his days to any one of dozens of branches of grain or fruit farming, or grasses or soil farming.

I think the other branches of farming—stockraising—is even more attractive and interesting, and calls for even more knowledge than raising crops from the soil. For you can breed corn quickly almost to a certainty to a fixed type, but you cannot get as good or quick results from breeding cattle, horses, hogs or sheep. You can make hay good from many mixtures, but you cannot breed horses with the same results.

You can increase the yield and at the same time the quality of your potatoes, but not of your pigs. So I say it takes the highest order of intellect and learning to deal successfully with the laws of life, inheritance and pedigree of live stock. In short the study of biology can hold and interest a farmer forever.

Who would not be a Booth or Bates or Colling or Cruikshank, and leave the legacy of good short horn blood that flows in our best cattle today? Who would not be the proud improver of these cattle, yet retaining all their other good qualities; who would not be proud to have to his credit the record of Sir Walter Gilby, who has the reputation of breeding the greatest Hackney horses in England, and who has written books on all breeds of horses and is known as one of the greatest horse experts in the world.

And there are names of men in our own State made famous only by the breeding and improving of our own Kentucky saddle horse.

Then take the old English name of the Bakewells, who spent their lives in improving and refining sheep, from which have developed the numerous breeds of today.

And the men who made and improved the different breeds of hogs, until we have most every color and kind suited to be raised in different parts of the country and fed on the cheapest feeds of their respective localities. In other words produced the breed of hogs best adapted to the country he is raised in.

All these men and many more have been intelligent farmers, and to them is due the honor and glory of doing something worth while to their fellowmen, for it was said of such of these by Dean Swift, "That the man who can make two ears of corn grow where only one grew before, or two blades of grass grow where only one grew before, is entitled to greater credit than all the politicians." TEEBLE OLD LADY

Has Strength Restored By Vinol.

Mrs. Michael Bloom, of Lewis- town, who is 80 years of age, says: "For a long time I have been so feeble that I have had to be wheeled around in an invalid's chair. I had no strength and took cold at the slightest provocation, which invariably settled on my lungs, and a cough would result. My son learned of the cod liver preparation called Vinol, and procured a bottle for me. It built up my strength rapidly, and after taking three bottles I am able to do most of my work, and I can walk a quarter of a mile easily. Every aged or weak person who requires strength should try Vinol. I am delighted with what it has done for me."

As a body builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, and after sickness, Vinol is unequalled. If it fails to give satisfaction we will refund your money. Wm. S. Lloyd, Druggist, Mt. Sterling.

HAZELRIGG & SON

Not the Horse.

The November 21st, 1908, issue of the Saturday Evening Post under the head "An Equine Hero," says: Lake Poland, the most patriotic of Vermont Yankees, and Col. T. of Kentucky, horseman, breeder of fast ones and a fine judge of mint, grew to be great friends when they were in Congress together.

Poland took T. up to Vermont as his guest one summer and showed him around. They came to the statue of Ethan Allen in front of the State House.

"That Tom," said Poland, "is the statue of Ethan Allen."

"Ethan Allen?" exclaimed T. "always thought he was a horse." Of course any true Kentuckian would think so, as we hear more about him down here, and he has done more good for our part of the country at least. Every Kentuckian knows or should know more about Ethan Allen, the horse, than Ethan Allen, the Vermont warrior, and when it comes to race the former could beat the latter every time, and the progeny of the horse will live in history, while that of the man is forgotten.

The records of most men die with them while the memory of our great horses and their successes on tracks or in the stud live on forever.

Great Success.

F. P. Clay, Jr., Park, Ky., says: "I have had great success with Bourbon Poultry Cure. On several occasions have cured chickens that were too sick to walk or stand up. Have lost but one old chicken this year."

Acting Secretary of the Navy Newberry has approved plans for the first location of the proposed dry dock at Pearl Harbor, Hawaiian Islands. This dock will be 1,100 feet long.

NO REASON FOR IT.

When Mt. Sterling Citizens Show The Certain Way Out.

There can be no just reason why any reader of this will continue to suffer the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of rheumatic disorders, the dangers of any kidney ills when a cure is so near at hand and the money so small. Proof given that they can be cured. Send what a Mt. Sterling citizen says:

"H. W. Willoughby, living on W. Locust St., Mt. Sterling, Ky., says: 'I strained my back in doing some heavy lifting about two years ago and from that time on until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at F. C. Dunsen's drug store, I was in a miserable condition on account of a lameness in my back. I could scarcely bend over or remain in any position and I lost one whole season's work on account of this disease. Some time my back ached so severely as to be almost unbearable. I used different remedies, but did not find relief until a friend finally recommended Doan's Kidney Pills. By the time I had taken the contents of three or four boxes I was a well man and I have not had the least sign of trouble with my back or kidneys since. I am glad to give my testimonial in favor of such a reliable remedy as Doan's Kidney Pills.'

The event given on Saturday evening under the management of Prof. Carl and Hoppler by Fred Emerson Brooks, the poet and humorist, was entertaining and elevating. Our people should avail themselves of the rare opportunities offered by the professors to have first-class talent in our city. There will be three more entertainments. Hal Marton, the magician and ventriloquist, will appear in January. Secure tickets and enjoy a treat.

LEGISLATIVE CANDIDATES.

This Legislative district is composed of the counties: Montgomery and Menefee. By an agreement acceptable to the Democrats of both counties Montgomery was to have the Representative for two terms and Menefee for one. It is now Menefee's time to offer the candidate. Without entering into the merits of such an agreement and the methods of choosing the nominee in a Legislative or Senatorial district, we accept the agreement. We present to our readers two candidates for the office from Menefee:

C. C. GOSK

Mr. Gosk is a young man about 26 years old. He is the son of Frank Gosk, of Marlin neighborhood and a brother of Henry Gosk, who for several years was County Clerk. So far as we have heard he has not previous to this time aspired to any office. He is an energetic, capable and ambitious business man; for a few years he has given his time to lumber interests. We have not had the pleasure of a personal talk with him relative to his candidacy, nor have we seen his announcement in his county paper. We presume it will appear in next issue.

CHAS. F. RINGO

Mr. Ringo is the son of A. J. Ringo, of Rothwell. He has been prominently associated with the county's affairs and people. For eighteen years he has been a teacher in the public schools of his school, he is President of the School Improvement League, and is at present and for three years has been a member of the County School Board of Examiners. These positions he has creditably and ably filled, and would, we think, be well qualified to handle educational questions which will be considered by the next General Assembly.

He has an extensive acquaintance in his county, and in addition to his association as above indicated served for six years as Chief Deputy Sheriff. He was reared and lives on a farm.

We have known him for several years and are pleased to present him for consideration by the people of Montgomery. We clip the following from the Agitator, his home paper:

"While eminently qualified and often sought by his friends to become a candidate for various offices, he has very modestly declined, and now, for the first time, he has yielded to their solicitation, and we can say of a certainty that Charles F. Ringo is a candidate, and here is moving that his nomination be made unanimous."

EDUCATIONAL.

Prof. Sharon and McDougall, of the Eastern Kentucky Normal School at Richmond, were in our city on Monday evening at the Methodist Church and to interest our people in the Whirlwind Campaign for higher education in Kentucky.

Many facts, some not complimentary to the educational standard of Kentuckians, were revealed, which should stir every section of our State. Prof. McDougall on yesterday went to Sharpburg and Owensville, thence goes to West Liberty, Sandy Hook, Izee, etc.

Great interest is being awakened throughout our State.

 Editor Advocate.

Dear Sir:—We receive your paper every Saturday and consider it a welcome visitor; no difference how busy we are we always take time to read it. I see that you all have had snow in Kentucky, while we have had a cold rain. We scarcely ever see a snow here, and then just a few flakes. No difference how cold it gets the ground never freezes, which seems very strange to me. The weather is warm here all day and cool at a night now. We had a cold spell on the 13th of this month and several people killed hogs. But meat isn't good here like in the North. It has to be covered all over to a depth of 4 inches to keep it.

We haven't had a rain here for 4 months, yet nothing is suffering. We have raised good crops and have plenty of water. Sometimes the ground gets so dry it cracks to a depth of 2 feet or more in some places, but the roads don't get dusty, though they are all dirt and no pikes anywhere. Cotton is about all picked, but is very low this season. It is now only 8 1/2c per lb. and last year it was 12 1/2c per lb. I raised 15 bales of cotton on 20 acres and that is considered a pretty fair yield. I also raised 600 bu. of corn with only one week's help. Corn sells now for 70c per bushel in the stack; has to be gathered in the stack or the weevils would eat it up. We have no boll weevils in our cotton as they do in some parts of the South. Texas is a good place to live; at least this part of it. The people are all religiously inclined. Not long ago they had a union meeting of Methodist, Baptist, etc., in the Tabernacle in Moody. There were 400 conversions, and the people donated $3,000 for the preacher and missionary work. I hope it will soon be that way in dear old Kentucky.

Yours,

Jno. B. Salyer.

Seriously Burned.

Three weeks ago the 2-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Clark, of near Judy, caught its clothing on fire from an open grate and ran out in the yard where its mother was. Mrs. Clark tried to put out the fire with her hands and had them severely burned, the flesh being burned off. For several days it was thought the child would die, but is now improving. It is thought Mrs. Clark will lose the use of one arm. Her daughters, Misses Bernice and Fannie, who teach school, have closed their schools for awhile on account of the condition of their mother and the child.

Barnyard Manure.

There is nothing that should interest the farmer more than the question of manure, and that of increasing the fertility of his soil, for it is upon the fertility of the soil that our success depends as a foundation.

Occasionally we see a man who says manure hauling does not pay; we hear of one man who thought he had the grandest idea for the farmer that he could have—he had his barn built on the bank of the creek, and all he had to do was to throw out his manure through the window, and it was out of the way. Yes, he had it handy but how does the owner of the farm have it to-day? Hardly making a living. We like to be bothered about the manure accumulating in the way and that we have to haul it but there is no work that pays as better. I once kept account of what profit I got in hauling manure. I hauled the manure on the ground that I was going to put in corn, and where I left off hauling I could see the difference, and in gathering the corn I figured it out. I found that the increase in the first year's corn crop gave me $2.00 per day for hauling, and I had no spreader. This gave me good wages for the first year, and as thick as I put it on and the kind of ground, it will do as well for five years, and after that it will do some good for five years longer.

There is no manure just like farm manure. We can buy commercial fertilizers and they are all right, and especially fine to use with farm manure. First, they are costly, and you do not get what you get in the farm manure. We get a fertilizer far richer in some elements, but it lacks some, too. The large amount of vegetable matter in the farm manure that adds humus to the soil is also valuable. Do not try to sell off all what is grown on the farm and try to replace it with fertilizer on the market. We cannot get along very well without some of the farm manure.

It does not take an expert to note the difference in two farms, the one of which has been farmed on the grain plan for twenty years, from which all the hay and grain have been sold off, and of another farm which has been a stock farm and where all the feed raised has been fed. The one is growing better each year and the other is growing poorer. E. J. Waterstripe, Madsfield, Mo.

Great Victories Gained By Temperance Folk in Ohio.

Superintendent Wayne B. Wheeler, of the Anti-Saloon League on November 16 in Ohio said that the prediction of the organization that half the State would be dry before the first fall of snow, had been realized. There were then forty-seven counties in the dry column, forty-two by Rose law elections and five through township municipal elections. There are eighty counties in the State so that there was then a majority of three on the dry side.

"If the saloons that have been forced out of business were placed side by side," said they would make a street seven miles long."

Later, up to November 25 fifty-three counties had voted dry, and seven wet. The last election on November 24, went dry by 946 and 1350 divided 60 Saloons.

Sales and Time

Inaugurated SATURDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 21, 1908, will continue until further notice.

SATURDAY

All day our house was filled with eager buyers, who know when we say we cut the price WE DO IT. Again they know that goods we are selling are the standard brands of the world in each line and our regular stock,

Which Has No Equal Here.

This sale of Fine Clothing, Hats, Shoes and Furnishings for Men and Boys offers an opportunity for every one to wear the best for less money than asked for shoddy stuff. Don't confuse this Sale with others, which are simply started to mislead you, "by the me to crowd." Our methods are square, original, clean-cut and leave no room for question or doubt. "Why we cut the price in the height of the season," some will ask, but that is purely a matter of our own.

What You Want

is the most for your dollar, and the most that is good, and here you can get it. The prices below should be read carefully. They mean the saving of many a dollar. Bring the bill with you. Everything as advertised.

New Holland Tramway System.

The Dutch government has granted a concession to the Amsterdam & North Holland Tramway Company to build and operate an electric railway system in Holland. The route will be nearly 50 kilometers, running from Amsterdam north through Zaandam to Krommenie, from Zaandijk to Wyk aan Zee, and Wormerveer to Purmerend. The Holland Development Company of Amsterdam will build the entire system.

Merely a Suggestion.

During the dinner hour on a boarder's steamer the other day a passenger was much disturbed by the vulgar way in which the man who sat next to him ate his meat. At last, after watching him pick a bone in a very primitive fashion, he could control his feelings no longer, and, turning to the offending party, he said: "Don't you think you would be more comfortable if you took that out on the nail?"—The Bitt.

The First Encyclopedia.

The honor of first bringing a dictionary of general knowledge into alphabetical order belongs to Ephraim Chambers, an English Quaker, whose taste for literature was acquired in a gloomier's studio; he stole the time belonging to his master to compose behind the shop counter the encyclopedia published in 1727.—Amer. Review of Reviews.

Confusion of Poisons.

The Russians may make a mistake in putting a skull-and-crossbones label on bottles of vodka. They will reach the simple peasant, who cannot read, to look for the poison label when he is thirsty, and who can tell much rational and useful and such deadly drugs will be taken in the guise of the other poison?

A Child's Comment.

Even little children are amazed at the backwardness of New York. A bright youngster of five, crossing over from New Jersey and seeing the West Street transportation relic for the first time, jerked her father's coat-tails nearly off, exclaiming: "Oh, papa, see the trolley cars being pulled by horses!"—N. Y. Press.

Idaho Actor's Wardrobe.

Tommy Post, one of the many stage folk living at the house on Grove street burned recently, was the heaviest loser of the actors stopping there. He lost a nightgown and a red bandana handkerchief, and the leg of one of his trousers was water-soaked. He will take immediate steps to replenish his wardrobe.—Idaho Statesman.

Vitality in Brain Work.

Vital as is the physical side of conserving youth, its true fountain is in our brain. If we maintain activity of its cells it quiets the circulation of the blood, the vital organs, gives light to the eyes, preserves the suppleness of the body, removes to a distance illness, age, death itself.

Scarcity of Humor.

It is to be feared that if the papers received a special courier once each week for the witicism of the week, it would be often left blank. There is no wit to speak of today, only a feeble imitation of it which people are fond of calling the saving sense of humor.—London Saturday Review.

It May Be.
